

ACCOMMODATION OPTIONS – DISCOVERY WEEK

You are welcome to stay anywhere in Toronto, but here are some conveniently located & economical options to make planning for your Discovery Week adventure that much easier. AirBnB is not listed below but has been growing in popularity amongst our attendees in recent years. Note: All prices are approximate due to ongoing fluctuations and annual increases.

RESIDENCES AT UNIV OF TORONTO

Please note: The university summer residences can fill up quickly. It pays to book early. Also, these places get cancellations and hence, persistence may pay off if you phone them back from time to time.

NEW COLLEGE, UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Location: Next door to our base at the Multifaith Centre (3 min walk).

Rooms: Single and double rooms available. Air conditioned. Bathrooms and showers are shared. (Often hard to get a room).

Prices: Just under $300 for 7 nights for a single room and under $400 for a double.

HOTELS

Please note: Unfortunately, the list below was more helpful a couple of years ago as prices have skyrocketed about 50% in recent years (the prices shown are as of July 2017). Importantly, a lot of the places listed below are cheaper if you go through a booking site like expedia.ca or booking.com. It will also show if they have a discount on. Book early! Summer in Toronto is peak season.

KAISAR GUEST HOUSE

This is not really a hotel but a guest house. It has benefits but is not for everyone. It is clean, the owner gives a good vibe, and past attendees have been pleased. But the building's old bones mean steep stairs and uneven floors in the hallways. Rooms are tiny. Some rooms have shared bathrooms but some are private. Rooms with private baths are quite cheap (under $100/night for both singles and doubles). The price is hard to beat and the location is great (an 8-10 min walk to our base). This place would suit me...but assess whether it's right for you.
